GOOD GRUB AND PLENTY OF IT!
AT THE
Bonnett House,
SALEM, OREGON.
L. JAY S. TURNEY,
HAVING LEASED THE ABOVE NAMED HOTEL, is prepared to accommodate the traveling public, and ONE HUNDRED REGULAR BOARDERS, in a good style as any House on the Coast. He has determined to make the "Bonnett" as good as the best and better than any public house in Salem. He will soon complete some important improvements, which will add greatly to its appearance and comfort, and intends to merit and hopes to receive his share of patronage.
He has secured the services of "Charley" (known to be the best cook in Salem, and one of the best in the whole country) and other competent persons to manage the culinary department, and is resolved to set as good a table as can be found anywhere—not in clap-trap, pomp and show, flummery and fine furniture, but in an abundant supply of the very best the market affords.
His bar-room will be kept warmed and lighted, and well supplied with newspapers, periodicals and other suitable reading matter, and kept in a manner which will make it an agreeable resort.
In short, in his aim in making an effort to please all who stop at the BENNETT HOUSE. And he most respectfully requests his friends everywhere to give the old and well known stand at least one more trial before concluding they can do as well elsewhere, and promises if they are not well treated, and properly cared for, and at reasonable charges, it will not be the fault of the public's most obedient and most humble servant,

The house is supplied with all the modern improvements necessary to constitute this a first-class Hotel—Hot and Cold Water Baths, etc., throughout—and is surpassed by no first-class house in the city. Situated in a prominent portion of the city, it affords an unequalled view of the bay, the city, and its surroundings. The well-known reputation of the proprietors will be sufficient guarantee that the table will be supplied with all the delicacies of the season that the market affords. We feel confident of being able to give satisfaction to all who may favor us with their patronage. STERN & BERG.

The Popular Will.

If the President is still of the opinion which Mr. Browning reports, that the people have not pronounced upon the Constitutional Amendment, he will never discover it. From Maine to Iowa this was the one issue. Every Union orator showed by the record that the President's original theory of restoration upon which he acted was that upon which Congress insists to day: that when he repudiated that principle he stigmatized his own action, deserted the party which elected him, and left himself in the hands of Copperheads and late rebels; that the conditions proposed by Congress were not only just in themselves, but were essential to complete those upon which the President insisted, and were necessary to the good faith of the nation; that to stop where the President stopped, and to approve the extraordinary doctrines which he announced, would be to make every brave boy who died in battle a fool for his pains; to reduce the war to a ridiculous trial of strength; to imperil the debt; to break faith with the freedmen; to leave every question open, and to invite self-contempt and the derision of mankind.

This was the ground upon which the Union campaign was fought, and a more intelligent, sober, and vigorous political contest was never known. The result justifies the faith of all who sincerely believe in popular government, because it is precisely upon such points of practical political wisdom that confusion of the public mind is to be expected. The Union line dresses itself unbroken from the Penobscot to the Mississippi. Congress is fully sustained, and the President's policy has been solemnly rebuked.

We confess that our delight in the result is not partisan triumph, for the Union party is not so much a party as it is the great body of the loyal and intelligent people acting together to plant the Union upon the corner-stone of justice, which is the only sure and permanent foundation of national peace. The result reveals us to ourselves. It shows that the people have the patience, the tenacity, the insight, and the quiet courage which are essential to the wise consideration of the condition of the country. Those who are inclined to consider the people of the country at large like the mob of a city, and to suppose that, like a mob, they can be driven hither and thither by vehement leaders—that they must necessarily be hasty, and impatient, and rash, and plunge wildly in a great crisis like a rudderless ship in the trough of the sea—forget entirely that the antecedents and the conditions of this country make us different from any other historical nation.

Such an expectation might, indeed, be verified in the city of New York, where the population is largely composed of the most ignorant foreigners played upon by the vilest demagogues. But the population of the country at large, is of British descent; its traditions are of local self-government; its temperament is not Celtic; our extent of territory permits easy expansion and ready support; the school and the church divide the days between them; so general an intelligence, so large a habit of popular self-restraint, were never known; and while these conditions remain the United States will constantly disappoint the expectations based upon the study of human nature under other circumstances. If the city of New York were a type or fair representative of the country, there is no civilized government that would not be preferable to the vice and ignorance in power which our government would present. Had the people of the American Colonies in 1776 been like those of this city in 1866, they would never have declared their independence; they would have kissed the foot of England, and would never have imagined a popular government possible or desirable. So long as the sturdy, independent, and intelligent spirit of the old Colonies is paramount in the Union it is safe. Should that spirit be extinguished the Union, as the defense of liberty, would disappear.

It is precisely that spirit which has prevailed in the late elections. The last shot of the war was fired more than a year and a half ago. The military prostration of the rebellion was immediate and universal. For four years the national mind had been strained steadily to the single purpose of maintaining the Government and the Union. Men of various party antecedents had united in that work, and the sudden, clean end of the war, without raveling out into guerrilla fighting, seemed to announce so equally sudden dissolution of the War party. A reaction was expected, the consequences of which might be disastrous to the country. The reaction, indeed, was confidently counted upon, and greatly explains the President's course.

Now, had the War party been merely such the reaction would inevitably have followed. With relaxed muscles the warriors would have idly watched the politicians reversing the victory. But the so-called Union party was and is really the people who intelligently waged the war, and with equal intelligence will settle its results. They have bought national security at a great price, and they know it. The elections are the plain advertisement of that intention. They say distinctly that it is not a President whose warmest adherents are those whose hands are still red with loyal blood; it is not a party which excused and fostered rebellion; it is not those who struck at the heart of the Government because they had lost its control, who are to decide upon what conditions rebellious States may resume their relations in the Union; but the loyal people who have saved the Union, and they only, are now to secure it wisely and forever.—Harper's Weekly.

THE PRESIDENT AND IMPARTIAL SUFFRAGE.—There seems every reason to believe that President Johnson is about to turn another short corner in politics, or as one of his recent Democratic admirers in this city expresses it, turn a somersault and jump down his own throat. For several days we have had from Washington significant hints and oracular utterances, all pointing to the one fact, viz: that Johnson has "accepted the situation," and is preparing to out-radical the radicals by bolting the negro and negro suffrage bodily, without the qualifying sauce which the Republican friends of a free ballot serve up along with the measure. It is claimed for him that he has never been otherwise minded and the Washington Republican publishes extracts from some of his early speeches to show how consistent his has been with this doctrine. It is openly stated that the President has made solemn pledges to prominent men of the South to issue a proclamation of general amnesty, with a recommendation for equal suffrage. The plan for wholesale pardon is said to be identical with the one presented in the United States Senate last March by Senator Stewart of Nevada. In doing this he is represented as not abandoning "My Policy," but only going back to my other policy, the same indicated to Governor Sharkey of Mississippi. Antagonism to Congress is still the ruling idea, and if reports be true the President is fully committed to the cause of the leading rebels of the South, who are making use of the impartial suffrage doctrine only to defeat the Constitutional amendment and procure a general amnesty, and eventually, it may be, a recognition of the rebel debt. The Democratic party is fast becoming reconciled to the new ideas promulgated a few weeks since in the Chicago Times and Boston Post. The World of this city held back for a while, but has at last given in its adhesion. The logic of the situation, as it appears to the Democratic mind, is something like this: Sooner or later the country will insist upon negro suffrage; sooner or later it will be embodied in the Federal Constitution. While there is yet time let us make its adoption, by the States themselves, in exchange for universal amnesty, the platform of a "reconstructed" Democratic party, which, through its leading men of the South, the pardoned rebels and former masters of the negro, shall still control its politics and manipulate the votes of an ignorant population in much the same manner that our Northern Democrats use the Irish vote. The first great point to be settled, however, before this programme can be carried out, is with whom rests the power to grant universal amnesty? Does it rest with the President or with Congress? On this point it seems not unlikely an issue is to be formed. Nor will the Democratic party give up its States' right doctrine and agree that Congress shall dictate the terms of universal suffrage. So we are likely to have as stormy a session of Congress this winter as we had last. It is remarkable, however, with what unanimity the mind of the nation is settling down on impartial suffrage as the only bed-rock on which the liberties of the republic can securely rest. We hear and read of nothing else. Both the Times and Herald of this city are converts to the new national faith. Amid the wreck of parties and strong drift of public sentiment in that direction, the Tribune and Independent tower up like light houses at the dawn of day.—Union's N. Y. Letter.

We compile from California journals the following telegrams giving additional particulars of the great flood in that State:

MARTINEZ, December 22d.—We have just heard from Pacheco, for the first time for two days. The town has been all under water. Every building but two are flooded. The only store damaged was that of P. Pons, who reports his loss at one thousand dollars. The others had time to place their goods up above the water. The farmers' warehouse tram road is damaged to some extent; how much is not known as yet. The water got into the lower house of the Pacheco Warehouse Company, wetting three tier deep of wheat.

SAN JOSE December 21st—2:50 P. M.—There was heavy rain during last night, accompanied by violent wind. The creeks are all overflowing their banks. The railroad bridge at Mountain View being carried away, the trains hence for San Francisco were obliged to return here this morning.

The weather is warm, and the prospect of more rain to-night. No serious damage has been done by the storm in this neighborhood.

SACRAMENTO December 21st.—The Pacific Railroad train ran yesterday to Colfax, bringing from that point the passengers from the other side of mountains who should have come through the day before, if there had been no interruption of the trains. The road is out of order at several points between Colfax and Cisco.

2.920 inches of rain fell yesterday between 9 o'clock A. M. and 9 P. M. This is the largest amount ever received in the city within the space of time. The receipts of Wednesday were 1.004 inches. These figures added make the total receipts of the season 2.932.

We were informed yesterday by a resident of the Cosumnes District that that stream was so high yesterday morning within three feet as during the flood of 1862.

A large portion of Daylor's Ranch was inundated. The base of the new levee designed to protect the citizens of Washington from inundation, commenced cutting away yesterday, as can be seen from any point along the city front.

PETALUMA, Dec. 20.—It has rained here since ten o'clock last night incessantly, and most of the time very heavily, with strong wind. Old residents here say it is the heaviest storm since the town was settled. East Petaluma is completely overflowed. An immense body of water is coming down from the country above. We have had no mail from Healdsburg since the 18th.

The stage driver from Bloomfield, to-day, reports the town completely flooded, the water being three feet deep in the streets. The storm still continues.

PLACERVILLE, Dec. 22—6:40 P. M.—The stage with the overland mail and ten passengers, is detained twenty miles east of here on the Barbrum Grade, on account of a slide filling up the road. It will be through some time to-night. The road is open across the snow belt.

SANTA ROSA, Dec. 21, 3:55 P. M.—We have had a great flood. All the streams in this vicinity are higher than they have been for many years. The bridge on Santa Rosa Creek is all right. The

Perplexing Questions

Just now there seems to be a good deal of misunderstanding among Democrats about their principles It is again becoming difficult to ascertain what orthodox Democratic principles really are Awhile ago the whole creed was embodied in the single injunction "Stand by the President" This creed was simple if not consistent But most of those who professed it a year ago have now quite abandoned it and are in consequence without a leading principle to guide them Hence there is an unusual amount of dissension among the organs of the party So fierce is the dispute in some quarters as to what genuine Democratic principles are, that the fight against the Radicals is actually languishing and bids fair soon to be entirely eclipsed by a more bitter and a more vindictive war among the faithful themselves The Boston Post Chicago Times and many lesser organs are out for negro suffrage insisting that this measure must henceforth be one of the leading principles of their party The New York Day Book and La Crosse Democrat characterize this avowal as an utter abandonment of Democratic principles, and as a betrayal of the party to the "mongrels" The New York World advises the President to cease his opposition to Congress, and the Cincinnati Enquirer declaims in the most vehement manner against such shameful, dastardly advice The genuine Democracy, those who go all lengths in defending slavery, secession and the late rebellion are inaugurating a new national movement with a view to planting themselves firmly on correct Democratic principles, wresting their party from the control of the trimmers who have been leading it, and committing it unequivocally in favor of radical measures A great Convention is to be held in Kentucky next spring to give shape and direction to this movement. All who profess to "accept the present situation" are to be thrown overboard Such persons as those who managed the Philadelphia Convention last August, are to be allowed neither part nor lot with the true Democracy The bucking and gagging operation is not to be repeated. The South is to be invited to a Convention in which she will have a chance to speak Considerations of expediency and policy are to be discarded, and the Democratic party is to be brought out once more on its only tenable platform—hostility to the negro, opposition to the results of the war and friendship for the rebels.

The trouble that is brewing in the East has also commenced working here The organs of the Democracy in this State are wrangling and quarreling about measures with an acrimony which, to say the least, is most singular in those who are devoted to principles which are "too clear to be misunderstood, and which can admit of no doubtful interpretation." One of our Democratic papers is disgusted with the President. He has not fulfilled the hopes of its party It declares that "before the assembling of the present Congress there was much hope that President Johnson would make use of the power which he undoubtedly possessed, and at once put an end to the unconstitutional career of a sectional Congress" This he has not done, and our Democratic organ, the Umatilla Press, confesses its bitter disappointment, and upbraids him for his delinquency The Herald reproves the Press for its remarks, the Press retorts upon the Herald and the happy family is precipitated into a serious quarrel The Press undoubtedly has the better of the controversy It has not been three months since the Herald expressed the very hope uttered by its Democratic confrère, that the President "would put an end to the career of the sectional Congress." The Press confesses its disappointment, but the Herald has not the frankness to confess it. The former paper wants to reject Johnson, while the latter still tries to hold to "my policy." The question arises, which of these organs is the champion of the time-honored principles? And further, what are the time-honored principles? One authority says, the President and his policy. Another says something else On the whole it is not easy in the midst of so much difference of opinion to decide just what those principles are. The national Convention which is to meet in Kentucky, will, it is hoped, settle these perplexing questions

ANCIENT SPECIMEN OF PRINTING —We have in our possession a decidedly ancient specimen of the printing art It is a history of the great Caroline Monarch, and from the title page appears to have been printed in London, in 1671 As a matter of course, the workmanship is rude, and the book is chiefly valuable as an early specimen of what at that date was termed the "divine art." On the cover of the book is the following inscription "Wm Wirt, Aug 20th, 1799, Richmond, Va." The book is now the property of Frank P Dugan, Esq, and as a specimen of early printing is well worthy the attention of the curious in such matters.—Walla Walla States man.

There are books in this State much older than this. We have seen two or three volumes which were printed before the close of the sixteenth century. There are books in private collections in this city which are much older than the volume the Statesman refers to.

At the close of the war the United States Navy numbered over six hundred vessels Of these, two hundred and ninety four are still in the service About all the useless vessels have been sold Of the list now are 63 iron-clads, 6 frigates and 88 ships of the line The Government makes the following classification, the rates referring to size rather than to the quality of the vessels 31 first rate ships of war, 686 guns, 48 second rate, 600 guns, 80 third rate, 881 guns, fourth rate, 390 guns Total number, 294 vessels, 2,563 guns The first rates are vessels of 2,500 tons and upwards.

The "national Union" (Johnson) executive committee at Washington are in trouble They are $30,000 in debt, and don't know where they shall get the money They had an excited meeting recently, and separated in disgust The President and Mr Stanberry were affirmed to be still in hearty sympathy with them, but it was declared that the other members of the Cabinet had been somewhat unreliable since the elections

That staunch Democratic paper, the New York Express, argues that its party will take no new grounds in declaring for equal suffrage, for they have always held to it! Of course Such is the elasticity of the Democratic conscience, and such the springiness of Democratic principles, that that party can take any course whatever and find precedents in its past history for its action

The next Congress, so far as elections have been held, will stand 128 Unionists to 3.5 Copperheads and Johnson men This is a gain of six members over the elections of 1864 The States which have not yet chosen members for the Fortieth Congress will increase the Union strength in the House by about twelve votes more

VOTE OF THE GREAT CITIES —The following were the votes polled during the recent elections in the large cities New York 113 585 Philadelphia, 105,500, Brooklyn, 48,919 Cincinnati and Hamilton county, 40,448 Baltimore, 21 600, St Louis 21 130 Chicago 20,945, Boston and Suffolk county, 44 570

The publication of the New York Daily Argus has been suspended A weekly edition, it is said, will hereafter be issued

San Francisco papers say that the publication of the American Flag has finally ceased

"Petroleum V Nasby" is to take a position on a New York paper

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON, D C Nov 18, 1866

There has been quite a flutter in the region of the White House over impartial suffrage since my last letter was written I am tolerably certain however, that it lay for the most part in the fertile minds of the newspaper correspondents Chief Justice Chase called one evening upon the President, and remained for an hour and a half Before he left two or three members of the Cabinet also called and for twenty or thirty minutes there sat conversing pleasantly together—first, the President, second, the Chief Justice, and last Messrs Seward, Stansbury and McCulloch! Alarming state of things—wasn't it? The next evening the same thing was reposted That of course was enough to set the world on fire—that is the newspaper correspondents with their lively imaginations thought it was on fire! Instantly the northern and eastern newspapers were filled with remarkable articles or startling dispatches, on the sudden conversion of the President to the doctrine of impartial suffrage Mr Chase was the man sent for to help the President out of his distress! A day or two after the interviews which so startled the country, I met the Chief Justice, and alluded to the stories current and said I do not take any stock in them—not a particle" His reply was quick "You had better not—for there isn't anything in them" Taking his word for it there is an end of the Presidential movement towards impartial suffrage

There still remains the question—what was the object of Mr Chase's two visits just at this particular juncture when we all know the President is writing his message? The two gentlemen are not on such cordial terms as to lead them to make such visits out of pure love of each others society Mr Chase was with the President, on invitation to discuss certain subjects I have no doubt that the subject of the judicial districts was up and very likely in addition to that the subject of the Jeff Davis trial It would be very natural if such were the case You will know before you get this letter—if the message is telegraphed to the Pacific coast, as I suppose it will be

The President is apparently resigned to the result of the elections He is treating Republicans in a more kindly manner than he was six months ago Somebody went up to see him a few days ago about removing one or two important officers in this city—to make room for Copperheads and he made this reply "I do not think that I shall make any more removals for the sake of political opinion—at least for the present What I may do next summer I cannot say, but I am inclined to stop making removals for the winter"

This looks a little as if he was afraid of Congress. He has made hundreds of removals, and in the list he has many favorites Now, suppose he wants the senate to approve of these appointments? He must stop somewhere Senators who have friends in office may be inclined to confirm some of his new appointees, on condition that he will let their friends remain This is the natural effect, at any rate, of a lenient policy on his part If he is ugly, the Senate will reject his appointments one and all, straight through But what if he institutes the revolutionary plan of withholding his nominations to the last day of the session, and then re appointing all all the rejected ones the day after the adjournment? He may do do this, but if he does, I think the next Congress will refuse pay to the men thus appointed It looks to me as if Congress would take this course if the President is contrary, so that he has some inducements to behave himself well I notice that he has been making changes in Oregon in some of the minor offices As Senator Williams has arrived I presume he will have his eye on these and other changes

It has been a wonder to our Copperheads that the President should let the Postoffice in this city and the Collectorship remain in the hands of Republicans In some respects this is strange, but there are reasons enough if one looks beneath the surface Bowen, the Republican postmaster, and Clephane the Republican collector, are excellent officers Bowen has personal friends in Seward, Randall and Blair They do not like to see him harmed, though differing with him politically Clephane is an old friend of Seward's, and is very popular as an officer in this community Still after all is said it is an offence to the old rebels of Washington (the returned rebels I mean) to see any Republican in office and the President is hardly consistent in allowing good men anywhere to remain in office But all over the country, here and there is an excellent man remaining in office, so that it is not disgraceful for a Republican to remain in office under Andrew Johnson If he should grow any worse, no decent man could consent to remain in office under him, for his reputation would be compromised by it Mr Hamlin, as we know, felt that he could not remain in office through the campaign, though he had a very lucrative one

The Copperheads have given up Gen Grant and all hopes of his ever consenting to run as a Presidential candidate on a "my policy" platform The General says little or nothing, but he shows his unmistakable disgust at the conduct of the Democrats in the recent campaign He is thoroughly disgusted, too, with the conduct of the President. He evidently thinks that he played the fool to perfection in the canvass It is queer that while Sherman and Grant are personally the warmest of friends, they differ so widely in reference to the great contest between the President and Congress Sherman stands squarely with the President He would give the rebels all they ask—trust them in everything This is in consonance with his arrangement with Gen Johnston in North Carolina. Sharp and sensible people then asked who has surrendered—Sherman or Johnson? So now if Sherman could have his way radicals would ask—which is triumphant—North or South? Yet when Sherman was in New Haven last summer he predicted a great war before the young men before him shall pass off the stage What did he mean? I have heard some people suggest that he meant to intimate, that in his opinion, the course of the North—its determination to insist upon "conditions precedent" and the obstinacy of the South would lead the nation into a second civil war worse by far than the first He meant something of the sort, doubtless But Sherman, while a gallant soldier and a great General, is a fool when he turns to statesmanship He has shown this without question in his whole public career He is a good fighter and a poor negotiator

Now, Gen Grant is about the same in all things He lacks Sherman's brilliancy but he has more ballast in his character He fights all summer" on one line He does not change, and if he is never fully up to the spirit of the times he is in no danger of going along with the think headed "Conservatives" He tries to be about even with average Republicanism, and if he is run by anybody for the Presidency, it will be by the Republicans This is inevitable It is quite likely however that he will decline to run at all—for anybody Although he is not as radical as one could wish, yet how much better a President he would make than the miserable man now in the chair!

Congress evidently will pay very little attention to the President but will go on its way trying to do its duty to the nation without paying much regard to the great obstructionist in the White House Who are wasting to see what Congress will do—what the President will say—what it is unusually dull here now—a fortnight hence and I can give you livelier gossip—for something will be easier worth writing about You must bear with your correspondent till then

THE LATEST MINES —We have a very reliable gentleman to [illegible] he speaks of the exciting news from the Lemhi mines. The writer of the article is the person who lately returned to Oregon City from the mines. He says there are between two and three hundred miles of quartz lead in the country, and that every foot of it is rich. He says that the Lemhi mines are richer than the Salmon River mines. The real facts have not been published to the world, but I believe I can state exactly the position of affairs. The people of Oregon have invested $2,000,000, divided into 4,000 shares, and in a few days since, as the result of a meeting of the wealthy owners, purchased the shares of stock. That is all we have before the public, and the annual meeting of the company, at which the present officers was held which resulted in the election of the same incumbents. So the management will remain as it is for another year. The question will still be a Portland [illegible] Wednesday evening, January 9th.

RETURNED AND TELEGRAPH TO —We have noticed by the telegraphic dispatches that a bill has been introduced in Congress that a land grant in aid of a railroad from Portland to this city and Astoria. The telegraph says that a similar bill to it but we are not aware that any such bill has been introduced in the present Congress. The Columbia River Railroad

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN.

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN is published this morning. It contains the latest telegraphic news from the East and California, a selection of the best articles appearing in THE DAILY OREGONIAN—full and reliable news from the Mines, and the most complete commercial information published by any paper in the State.

The average amount of reading matter in the WEEKLY OREGONIAN is double that published by any other journal in Oregon, and in the particular of Commercial statistics and the Markets we aim to make it the most reliable and more especially in matters pertaining to Oregon interests.

☞Single copies 12½ cents or $3 00 per year to any part of the United States or British Columbia.

HOLE A PORTLAND INSTITUTION.—There has been a great deal of talk in Portland and, indeed throughout the State, about the recent sale of stock in the O. S. N. Co., and its effect upon the rival interests (supposed) of several towns on the Columbia and Willamette. Mean time, the directors and officers of that company have let no word of satisfaction to the contrary pass, but have gone on minding their own business like sensible men much to the disgust of "many anxious inquirers." We find the following in relation to the matter in the last letter of the Portland correspondent of the Bulletin, and, as he rarely says anything about matters with which he is not posted we furnish it for our readers:

"The fame of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company is not confined, I believe, to its own country. Tourists and bookwrights have tasted its hospitality, and boasted of its largess and enterprise. Rowles said that it run this country much in the manner that the California Steam Navigation Company and bank does your State in this. He was mistaken. Our company never had any influence in the politics of the country, none whatever. But on the business of this town and the Columbia trade, it is said has been a monstrous power. In the trade and business South of this, depending upon the navigation of the Willamet river and farm wagons, it is also a stranger. That region of country, so far as it owns a separate master, is under the dominion of the People's Transportation Company—a shrewd squad of well managing and economical old Oregonians, who have their headquarters at Salem. But as I said, in this town in a business point of view, the O. S. N. Company is a first class payer, and the management and ownership of it are matters of moment and constant observation in business circles. We have often been threatened with the establishment of some rival town on the Columbia or at the mouth of the Willamet. But knowing the root which Portland has taken in the soil and business of Oregon, during twenty years of quick and dull times, and knowing that nine-tenths of all the permanent and ever growing business of Oregon were to the South of Portland rather than the North and East of it, I never had much concern about the rival town on the Columbia. But while the navigation of the Columbia and the Willamet below Portland was in the hands of Portlanders this trade assurances doubly sure. But for the past few days there had been a buzz about town to the effect that the Oregon steamboatmen had sold out to some Californians for which, as usual, what was to come of it was in the mouth of every business man interested in the Oregonian town razed. The real facts have not yet transpired on the street, but I believe I know the transaction as it took place exactly. The capital stock of the company is $1,000,000, divided into 4,000 shares of $500 each. A few days since, as the result of some weeks' negotiation, a meeting of Stockholders was purchased between 1,300 and 1,400 shares of stock. That result and nothing more. Shortly before this purchase the annual election for directors and officers was held, which resulted in the choice of the old board. So the management of the company will remain as it is for another year at least. The corporation will still be a Portland institution, and neither the making mother to a rival town or the appendages of any of your mammoth combinations of wealth. More than this does not concern the public and need not be stated."

JOTT OF REMEMBRY CASTEEL'S PARTY.—Some of our readers will remember that in March 1864, J. A. Waymire, of this city, then a Lieutenant in the Oregon Cavalry, was sent out from Fort Dalles with a detachment of his men to protect the citizens of the John Day's river country from Indian marauders. While pursuing a body of Indians west of Harney Lake, Sergeant Jos. Casteel with private Ingraham, and Humbert and a citizen named Asquith were sent to reconnoitre a supposed Indian camp with instructions to rejoin the main body of the command at the head of a valley towards which the Indians were retreating. About noon of that day (April 7th) the main command was overpowered by Indians and compelled to retreat to the intrenched camp which they had left the morning, and where the baggage had been left in charge of a guard. At night Sergeant Casteel's party failed to appear, and the following day was spent in an anxious search for them. On the 10th the volunteers began the march back to Canyon City in total ignorance of the fate of their missing comrades. No information of what befell them was ever obtained until last June, when a scouting party of the regular troops fell in with some of the Indians who were of the band that attacked the troops in 1865. These Indians report that Casteel's party was attacked about the same time as the assault upon the main body. All but Sergeant Casteel were killed. The Sergeant being well mounted succeeded in gaining the open ground and took refuge with Warmsher for the Warm Spring Reservation. A large party of Indians pursued him. On the fourth day he was overtaken and killed—his horse having given out and his ammunition having been expended. During his pursuit Casteel killed seven Indians. He traveled two hundred miles and was within one day's march of the Reservation. The Indians think that if he had had a few cartridges he would have made his escape, so nearly were his pursuers exhausted.

SHIPWRECKS.—We have just returned from Salem where we picked up the following items: A letter which we saw on, had just been received from Mr A. T. Smith, detailing particulars about the discovery of a rich quartz ledge about six miles north of Keys' Mills in the vicinity of the Santiam. For several years, bits of pure native copper have been found in that vicinity, but the ledge was not found only a few days ago. It is exceedingly rich in ore as it has been prospected, and the holders of it have their discovery at a high figure. ——The discovery of an extensive coal bed on the bank of Butte creek, about twenty miles from Oregon City is confirmed. It is the same as that mentioned a few days since as having been discovered by Frank Cooper. ——The Christmas festivities at the Capital ranged all the way from quiet to gay—mostly of the latter character. Christmas trees were set up for the sabbath schools, at the Baptist church, Monday evening, and at the M. E. Church Tuesday evening, at each of these places were large gatherings among whom were distributed more presents and more happiness than we could undertake to mention in a single item. A public ball was given Christmas Eve in Boon's building, North Salem, and quite a number of private and public parties came off the next evening. On Tuesday evening we attended a meeting of Mr. James Fisher's class at the Sunday school in connection which he has fitted up this winter and is conducting in excellent style. He has about thirty young men now in training. The proficiency which he boast of them exhibited, as a practice only a few weeks, argues well for the institution itself and its manager. ——The two lodges of Odd Fellows in Salem, both of which are in a very flourishing condition, held visits in a public installation of their officers, on Tuesday evening, January 9th.

RAPID AND TELEGRAPH TO ASTORIA.—Our readers will be pleased by the telegraphic news in yesterday's ORE-GONIAN, that a bill has been introduced in Congress to grant lands in aid of a railroad and telegraph between this city and Astoria. The telegraph line in this bill has a visible point to it, but we are unable to see exactly where the laugh comes in on the railroad part of it. The Columbia river furnishes a means of direct communication with the sea board at all seasons, with very rare interruptions of short duration. If Oregon is to have mill aid from Congress, the lands and dollars should be applied somewhere where navigation is less easy and where there really exists some need of such means of transportation. There could be, however, no objection to an act of Congress donating lands to build a railroad between the two points, or even from the summit of Mt. Hood, on an air line to the topmost rock of Mt. Tabor, provided, such grant would work no prejudice to granite that really were needed.

A Fair.—The ladies of the Hebrew Benevolent Society of Portland, last evening gave a very pleasant party to their former President, Mr. Leopold Wolff, who is about to leave Portland to seek the restoration of health in a milder climate. A very pleasant party was present at the house of Dr. Black, and Mr. Ostheim, President of the Society on behalf of the ladies, presented Mr. Wolff with a handsome cane, silver headed, inlaid with a beautiful gold bearing quartz and bearing the inscription. From the ladies of the Hebrew Benevolent Society to L. Wolff, Portland, Dec. 28, 1866." The response of Mr. Wolff to this gratifying token was very feeling and brought real tears to the eyes of his friends who had gathered to bid him adieu and wish him a successful voyage. After the presentation was made, the party assumed a livelier vein, and the evening was very agreeably spent in giving and honoring toasts, and lively conversation.

FOR MILLS.—We learn from a gentleman just from the Umatilla River valley that the saw mill and flouring mill at that reserve have just been completed. Mr. H. W. Shipley of Clackamas county, superintended the work, as mill wright and machinist. The mills are built by the Government for the use of the Reservation at a cost of about $15 000, and are said to be in very superior style. The flouring mill has one run of burrs, with a manufacturing capacity of about fifteen bushels per hour. It is supplied with a smut machine and the usual appliances of a country mill.

THE LINCOLN MURDER.—We have been shown a letter from a very reliable gentleman, to a friend in this city, in which he speaks of the exciting news from the lately discovered Lombi mines. The writer of the letter was informed by the person who first discovered the mines, that five distinct claims have been established within a distance of four or five miles of each other, in any of which a miner can make from five to fifty dollars per day. The discoverer came down to State Creek and with his partner immediately returned.

NEW TRIAL DENIED.—The motion for a new trial in the case of R. R. Vance, sentenced Thursday to six months imprisonment for an assault and battery, was argued yesterday, before Justice Hoffman, by Messrs. Stout and Dolph for Vance and Mr. Mitchell for the State. The Court denied the motion, on the ground that after sentence he had no further power over the matter. An application will probably be made to Judge Shattuck for a writ of habeas corpus.

DISCHARGED.—Wm. Sweeney before the Recorder yesterday, on the charge of resisting an officer while making an arrest, was discharged on the ground of a defect in the complaint. It appeared, too incidentally that Sweeney was really endeavoring to assist the officer, though his efforts were officious and blundering rather than helpful; so much so that the officer entirely mistook his motive.

ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH CORP.—See Jacob Mayer's advertisement of goods selling at less than cost at the City of Paris store. Those who want bargains there, must call soon.

RUMOR OF INJURY TO THE "MONTANA."—A rumor was current yesterday that the Montana had received serious injury during the late gale in San Francisco harbor by being run into by another vessel. On inquiry we find that there was a collision, but that the Montana received but slight injury, and was expected to sail two or three days after the Oriflamme.

CORRECTION.—In our report of police court proceedings yesterday the statement occurred that the arrest of B. Vance for firing a pistol etc took place in the Washington Saloon. Mr. Vance the proprietor says the saloon was closed at the right hour and that the disturbance took place in the street. Our error was false information and is corrected.

SAILS TO-MORROW.—The Oriflamme will sail to-morrow Sunday at 8 o'clock A. M. It will be seen by posters around the street that she has raised the price of passage to $25 in the cabin and $15 in the steerage. The price of freight is also raised from $3 to $5 per ton.

NEWS FAVORS.—McCormick as is usual with him on the arrival of every steamer has a very large lot of the best and latest papers and magazines. We got our bundle as we always do. Mr. Knows how to serve every body who wants anything in his line.

WILLAMETTE FREIGHT.—Per Senator Friday, Dec 28th: 826 boxes apples, 1 half bbl butter, 1 box mdse, 183 qr sks flour, 2 sacks, 5 boxes eggs, 35 sacks feed.

Per Alert, 72 boxes apples, 1,233 qr sacks flour, 63 sks feed.

LATE PAPERS.—Barrett received a splendid stock of late Eastern and California papers by the steamer. We thankfully acknowledge the receipt of a large bundle. Barrett has everything in the news line.

HELD TO ANSWER.—Julian Ladrue, on a charge of grand larceny was yesterday held by Justice Hoffman to answer in the Circuit Court, and committed to jail. No bonds have yet been fixed or asked for.

AUCTION TO-DAY.—A lot of very nice furniture will be sold to-day by Mr. Richardson at the usual hour. Among the items is a fine parlor set. Mr. R. will also offer a large lot of groceries.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.—The Rev. E. C. Anderson, late from the East, will preach in the 1st Presbyterian Church on Sunday, the 30th inst., both morning and evening, at the usual hours for religious service.

SHINGLES AND FISHERIES.—E. J. Northrup & Co. have received a lot of shoe thread to which the notice of all men is invited. They, also, have seine twine for fishermen's use.

NEWSPAPER FAVORS.—Major Stratman of the Empire News Depot, San Francisco sent us by the Oriflamme, a liberal bundle of Eastern newspapers, for which he has our thanks.

ARRIVED.—Capt. Howard Stevens, the son of the late Gen. I. I. Stevens, with his mother and sisters, arrived by the Oriflamme. We are not advised as to their destination.

NEARLY GONE.—The old year is nearly gone; the new year comes on apace and nobody will want to be caught in a shabby suit of clothes. The chances for buying a fine suit of Barman Bros before the close of 1866, are now limited to a few days; but we are happy to announce that those gentlemen are laying out plans for a brilliant campaign for 1867. Having taken that fine brick building now known as the "City of Paris Store," on Front street, they will open early in 1867, a clothing house equal to any in America. As Barman Bros have kept the lead in 1866, so they intend to keep it in 1867.

AT PRIVATE SALE.—Mr Cohen having sold at auction the greater part of his stock of jewelry, will dispose of the balance on very favorable terms at private sale, until New Year. He has yet on hand a choice lot of ladies' jewelry, such as finger and ear rings, breast-pins, neck chains lockets, etc.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS.—WELL BIUS have a large and varied assortment of fine dress goods—such as Mohre antique silk dresses, French and Irish poplins, etc.—which they are selling off at cost, affording an excellent opportunity for the purchase of HOLIDAY PRESENTS. They also offer, at cost, the choicest stock of custom made clothing and Gents' furnishing goods.

Attention Fenian Guards.—Members will assemble at their Armury on Wednesday evening, Jan 2, 1867, for the annual election of officers and to transact other important business. By order of

IMPORTANCE OF HAVING DAVIS' PAIN KILLER ALWAYS ON HAND.

Extract from his letter, published in the Baptist Missionary Magazine:

For the first time since I have been in India, I have been stung by a scorpion. I went out this morning to my exercises, as usual, at early dawn, and having occasion to use an old box, on taking off the cover I put my hand on a scorpion, which immediately resented the insult by thrusting its sting into the palm of my hand. The instantaneous and severe pain which darted through the system is quite incredible, what an awful virulent pain their sting must contain! I flew to MY BOTTLE OF DAVIS' PAIN KILLER and found it to be true to its name, after a few moments' relief, I satisfied a small piece of sugar, poured it on my hand, and went about by exercises, feeling no more particular inconvenience."

History.

The fate of nations like a mighty sea,
Is full of hidden whirlpools, rocks and graves;
And he is blind that in their destiny
Sees but the conflict and the waves.

For all the storms are governed by a breath,
Athwart this night traverse celestial rays;
Through man's conflicting cries of fear and death
A still small voice resounds and unrolls stays.

The ages, giant brothers, one by one,
Diverse in fate, alike in hope aspire,
For the same goal by many paths have run,
Varied their temples, stranger but one the fire.

Oh, muse! thine eyes the centuries embrace;
The past and future's solemn circle grave;
For days and years and ages only trace
One transient furrow on the eternal wave.

Doubt not, ye judges—victims, doubt not this—
Her torch immortal shall all lands illume;
She climbs the mountains, fathoms the abyss,
And founds a temple where they asked a tomb.

She lays the top-stone on the arch of time,
Each age successive at her voice appears;
Like captured warrior, conquered in his prime,
With glories past she gilds the future years.

Her laurels crown the dying hero's brow,
The conqueror's car she binds with thyrse;
Deep moaning, walks where falling empires bow,
But everywhere still shows the path to God.

The world's vast ship she followed o'er the seas,
For all the debris of its wrecks hath room;
She sees at once the dawn and set of centuries,
The latest cradle and the earliest tomb.

Ascent of Mount Etna.

We crouched upward for an hour or two, and the country became more fertile. A kind of broom grew and a beautiful silver thorn was there in great abundance. Crunch, crunch, crunch, we are approaching the forest, and pass many fine trees, and at last arrive at the real forest. What a strange sight in the moonlight! Immense trees (oak,) some two yards in diameter of solid timber, calculated to be 1,500 years old, and some have been guessed at 2,000 years. But among them is another forest still more wonderful. "Was that a tree struck by lightning?" "Ah, no, Signore," says the guide, "that is not a tree, that is lava!" Ages ago, before these trees were moorns, the liquid stone came down from the mountains and lapped up around the trees which then grew here; the trees were burned but left the lava in their exact shape. It seemed so impossible to believe that that was stone and not hollow tree, that I jumped off the mule and examined it in the moonlight, and it was then more difficult still. So I made Ciego light the candle he had in his pocket, and even then I could scarcely believe it. There was the bark, the roots and all the characteristics of an oak—but much it and you felt the trunk. It was wonderful. One tree which had been prostrate lay there a hollow tree of stone—roots, branches, trunk, all perfect. There was a whole forest of these stone trees in the midst of the gigantic living ones. The brilliant moon broke in silver patches through the trees and flickered on their trunks. Crunch stumble, crunch, for another hour and a half, and we sighted the Casa del Bosco (the House in the Wood), where the mules were to rest and eat barley. I was so stiff that I could hardly walk when I dismounted and entered the hovel, where I found four gentlemen of very dubious appearance. I never saw anything off the stage so well got up for robbers and outthroats. They were all armed with guns and some with pistols; they wore sandals and leather straps crossed and crossed up the legs. Their faces could only be described as villainous in the extreme. I saw the muleteer feel in his breast-pocket to see if his pistol was handy. Ciego did the same, and a look of inquietude stole over his face. One of them came to me and civilly saluted me and said it was a very lonely place.

"Yes," I said, "so it is."

"Nothing nearer than Nicolosi, nine miles off," he said.

"I know it."

"Was I armed?"

"Yes."

"Was it a pistol?"

"Yes."

"Was it a revorber (revolver)?"

"Yes, it was."

"Would I show it him?"

"No, I decline."

"How many shots?"

"Five."

"Ah I now, how wonderful the English were! Please let him have it only for a few moments, just to show his friends."

"No, I positively declined—he might see it in my hand if he liked, but would not let it out of my hand."

Here the guide gave me a look of approval. And he was fully satisfied that all the chambers were loaded and capped. He supposed I was a good shot.

"Middling," I said.

"Would I aim at something to show him?"

"No, I would not; but when I came down the mountain by daylight, perhaps I would if he were there then."

Then he turned to Ciego and asked him if he had a "reverber." Ciego caught my eye and said: "Yes, just such another. It was not exactly the fact, but the inquisitive gentleman made no further inquiries.

When we were again in the saddle I questioned the guide about those gentlemen. He said he did not know much about them: he sometimes saw them about; they did not live at the Casa del Bosco, he did not know where they lived. "Were they honest?" Well, he did not know, but I did quite right not to let him touch the pistol. Whew! he gave a whistle of relief. "Were persons ever robbed on the mountain?" "Well, yes, sometimes," "And killed?" "Y-e-s," (hesitatingly) "but not just here—over there," waving his hand to the left. After this the way got steeper and we crouched up in silence for some time.—From Life's Battle.

We have recently heard of a man who obtained a bill of divorce on the ground that his wife was extravagant. Specification: "She used butter for shortening." This is about equal to the man who complained of his daughter's extravagance because she persisted in buying a waterfall for her head, when she already had a cataract in her eye. He couldn't brook that.

A play has been adapted for Miss Matilda Heron from the "Maid's Tragedy" of Beaumont and Fletcher. It is very sombre and bloody.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

WEEKLY EDITION.

Wholesale and Jobbing Prices.

PORTLAND, FRIDAY, P. M.,
Dec. 28, 1866.

We have very few changes to note in prices. Trade continues dull. Flour in the San Francisco market is drooping, in consequence of which, there is a general disinclination on the part of dealers here to purchase beyond immediate requirements. We find Oregon extra quoted in the San Francisco reports of the 24th, at $9, at which a small lot was sold. Of Oregon wheat, small sales are reported at $1 75 ₱ ctl. Oregon apples are selling in that market within the range of $2@$1 50, the latter for extra choice.

In our own market, it may be said that almost everything quoted is dull at the prices named. This is particularly true of bacon and lard. The decline in San Francisco, together with the high freight asked per Orifiamme, will check temporarily, free shipments of produce, though considerable quantities are still arriving from the interior. For the present, it will go into store.

The latest Western quotations of gold was 137½ on Saturday the 15th. Legal tenders are quoted in San Francisco at 72 buying, and 72¾ selling.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS—(Seasonable Goods) Apple Parers, iron table, $1@12 ₱ doz.; Cider Mills, from $30 to $75 each; Small common Hay Cutters, $12@$17 each; Dahlel Cutters, $15.

DR. G. W. BROWN

HAS located in Portland, in CARTER'S NEW BUILDING, for the permanent cure of all private diseases, such as syphilis, gonorrhea, gleet, stricture &c. He also calls the attention of those suffering with

DISEASES OF THE EYES

to call at his office and be at once restored. Surgical operations SKILFULLY performed on the EYES for film, cataract, strabismus or cross eye.

Below are some of the many testimonials:

This is to certify that I, John B. Jodwan, was blind for over nine years, and I tried all means of a cure, and had many doctors, but all of no effect, and I spent all the means I had. Finally, I had to become a county charge, and when I was taken to Dr. G. W. Brown, and stated my case to him, and misfortune, he at once commenced to treat on my eyes, and now I am well, and commend all those that are suffering with diseases of the eyes to call on Dr. G. W. Brown. The reason why I do this is to let suffering humanity know where they can be cured. J. B. JODWAN.

STATE OF OREGON, Marion County, ss.—Subscribed and sworn to before me this 22d day of November, 1866.
SETH R. HAMMER, Notary Public.

SATURDAY, Nov. 10, 1866.

This is to certify that my daughter was almost blind for over seven years, and was declared by other physicians without obtaining any relief, when finally I took her to Dr. G. W. Brown, who examined her case, and at once began to give her treatment, and her sight has been entirely restored. I do this to let those who are suffering with diseases of the eyes know where they can obtain a cure. It has been three years since her eyes were cured, and they are yet sound.

THOMAS LIVINGSTON.
Deer Creek Precinct, Douglas county, Oregon.

SALEM, April 21, 1866.

This is to certify that I was blind for over four months, and almost blind for one year and a half; I tried several eye doctors but received no benefit; I had almost given my case up as hopeless when fortunately I heard of Dr. G. W. Brown, now of Salem. I was induced to call on him; he performed a surgical operation on my eyes, and gave me treatment. I soon began to recover, and in a short time I was perfectly cured. I do this in justice to one who rescued me from a life worse than death, and also for the benefit of those who are laboring under similar affliction that they may know where they can get relief. It is now about eight months since my eyes were cured and they still remain good. I can see to read the finest print without difficulty, and my eyes can bear the strongest light without pain.

ALEXANDER MITCHELL.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this the 21st day of July, A. D. 1866. BETH R. HAMMER,

3. All applications for the additional bounty authorized by this Act from surviving soldiers shall be in the form hereinafter prescribed, and the evidence of identity shall be the same as is now required, and applications from the heirs of deceased soldiers shall be in the form now required by the Treasury Department.

4. As soon as the examination of the rolls by any regiment, or other independent organization, shall have been properly acted upon the Paymaster General shall take the necessary steps for their prompt payment.

5. A register shall be kept in the Paymaster General's office, and also in the office of the Second Auditor, of all claims presented under the law, in which the claimants will be classified by regiments, etc. If the claims be allowed, the amount of bounty paid to each will be noted, and if rejected the cause of rejection will be distinctly stated.

6. In the applications for bounty, as required by the third of these rules, the affidavit shall state each and every period of service rendered by the claimant, and also that he never served otherwise than as herein stated.

7. Organized bodies lawfully in the service of the United States, or called out for special purposes, as State Militia, Home Guards, etc., and not included in the general bounty laws, are not included within the meaning of the Act.

8. Soldiers enlisted for "three years or during the war," who were discharged by reason of the termination of the war, shall be considered as having served out the period of their enlistment, and are entitled to bounty under this Act.

9. The minority of heirs, claimants for bounty under this Act, must be proven to have existed at the date of its passage. Parents shall receive jointly the bounty to which they may be entitled as heirs, unless the father has abandoned the support of his family, in which case it shall be paid to the mother. Non-residence in the United States shall not be a bar to the claim of heirs, who would otherwise legally inherit.

10. The provisions of the Act exclude from its benefits the following classes:

1. Those who, after serving the full period of their enlistment, were dishonorably discharged at its expiration.

2. Those discharged during enlistment by way of favor or punishment.

3. Those discharged on account of disability contracted in the service, but not occasioned by wounds received "in the line of duty," who shall not have previously served two or three years respectively at the time of discharge.

4. Those discharged on account of disability existing at the time of their enlistment.

5. The heirs of those who have died since their discharge of wounds or disease not contracted in the service and in the line of duty.

6. The surviving soldiers and heirs of deceased soldiers who, under previous laws, have received or are entitled to receive a bounty of more than $100 from the United States.

7. The surviving soldiers, as well as the heirs of deceased soldiers, when such soldiers have bartered, sold, assigned, loaned, transferred, exchanged or given away their final discharge papers, or any interest in the bounty provided for by this or any other Act of Congress.

8. The Act of the 28th of July, 1866, creates no right of inheritance beyond those vested by the law under which those heirs received or were entitled to receive the original bounty, and debars certain classes, brothers and sisters of heirs that were entitled to receive the original bounty, from any claim for the additional bounty provided by this Act.
